

RELIABLE CLOTHING!

We have put our best thought into the manufacture of clothing that will prove in every way satisfactory to the wearer. Here the man that wears the clothes and the manufacturer meet face to face, and the manufacturer finds out it is a very different thing to make clothing for the stores and to make it for the man that must be fitted and wear the clothes. He must have a perfect fit. He must have the buttons put on to stay. Seams must not rip and goods must not fade. Everything must be right or we hear from him. And we are sure everything is right. Our Clothing is RELIABLE. And so we have built up a vast custom business. At the same time we have kept the prices as low and lower than clothing that is made to job.

We are showing a magnificent line of

RAN HIM OFF.

John Mitchell Tells Why He Jumped His Bond, And Gives the Names of the Parties Who Induced Him to Skip.

Several Arrests Made To-day on Grand Jury Indictments—The Order for the Special Petit Jury and the Circuit Grand Jury Recalled by Judge Treat—The Grand Jury Strikes Judge in His Last Effort—The Prisoners.

Jas. Pendergast, alias John Mitchell, alias Jas. Reilly, the mysterious presence at the Government building, is still held in secret custody. No person has been allowed to see him except the officials, but notwithstanding this fact, the most material evidence elicited in the inquiry is in the possession of the indicted parties, a fact which leaves no reason why the public should be kept in further ignorance. Although Mitchell is kept a close prisoner in the fourth story apartment at the Hotel St. Louis, the Grand Jury reporter, in substance it is as follows: "My right name is Jas. Pendergast. I gave the name of John Mitchell because that was the name that I was told to use. I was with several other fellows at the time. On election morning I saw a crowd of fellows in a wagon and I jumped in. They were whooping it up, and I didn't ask them any questions. I don't know who the man was that was in charge of the wagon, but I know the other fellows. I saw him again. On the way down town he took out a lot of slips of paper containing names to be voted on. The one I got had the name of John Mitchell on it. All the other fellows voted 'except me and another fellow who had the name of W. B. Christian. That Supervisor objected and Paddy Golden said we had a right to vote. He told us to get into the wagon and drive over to the City Hall. We did not go in but Golden did. He went into the back room there and saw somebody. We wasn't asked any questions by any body."

WHEN GOLDEN CAME OUT he had two certificates of registration, and we went back to the hotel. We got arrested there and were taken down to this building. Jim Busby came down and went and got Eddie Butler, who went on my bond in the sum of $1,000. I went away and went to see some attorneys. I told them all about it, and they told me I should do. Mr. Martin said, 'Well, if that's the case you had better go up there and throw yourself on the mercy of the Court.' I was going to do this and came down here to answer the charge. I came up about 10:30 o'clock, and I didn't see anybody around, so I went downstairs again. When I went down I met Pat McNamara and Constable Conway. We were talking about my case, and we went out on the street. I met Jim Busby out there and we took a drink, then we walked down to Fourth street. Busby was the man that got me the bond. He gave me a dollar, and said, 'You go over to East St. Louis, and stay at the house of a man named John. We'll beat the bond first and then we'll beat the case. I went over to East St. Louis, and that afternoon Busby and McNamara came over. They gave me $27 in cash and a ticket on the Chicago & North Western. I left that night and went to Chicago straight. While I was there I went under the name of Reilly. I wrote to a friend named Green here and told him about where I was and where he found me. I was arrested by that detective. I went before the Grand Jury on last Friday and gave my testimony then. I was the last witness that day and wasn't taken before more than ordinary cases and people around here had gone away."

SCARE AT THE FOUR COURTS.

The announcement in the papers that the United States Grand Jury had returned another high of indictments against parties not yet arrested has created considerable consternation at the Four Courts among some of the city and State employees. This morning a man came to the building and inquired for one of the deputy sheriffs. After being told that the man was not present, he returned to the No. 1200 N. 12th street private room. Deputy Clerk Fitzgerald came to the conclusion that the caller was a United States Deputy Marshal, and that he wanted to arrest somebody on an indictment. He informed some of the other deputy sheriffs of his fears, and they jumped at the conclusion that Fitzgerald was correct in his suspicions. One of them had a key to the Judge's room and locked the man up in it. After keeping him in there some time, the deputy sheriff who was supposed to have been indicted arrived at the building and announced himself ready to surrender himself, stating he could procure bond. The door of the Judge's room was unlocked and the deputy entered and told the man he was ready to go with him. After making the announcement he got a glimpse at the man's face and saw that he was an old friend from Cincinnati and not a United States Deputy Marshal at all.

SAFER QUARTERS.

About 2 o'clock this afternoon Mitchell, who had been incarcerated in the top story of the Custom-house, was taken in charge by the United States Deputy Marshal and taken to the Four Courts, where he was placed in safer quarters in the jail.

DEPUTY SHERIFF JOSEPH O'CONNOR was arrested this afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was taken to the Four Courts and given a bond of $5,000, with Hugh Owens as security. He expressed himself as ready to give bond for $10,000, but was refused. Revisor Gulon of the Third Ward was also arrested. He had a third indictment returned against him. He is already under bond and was released on his own recognizance.

A report was very generally circulated that John Mitchell had been indicted, but was not confirmed by an arrest to-day.
